Manager's Report

for the year ended June 30, 2018

Market Overview

The global growth picture remained supportive for credit fundamentals over the past 12 months. US economic data releases were broadly positive, indicating further growth momentum and a tightening labor market. The US Federal Reserve raised the federal funds rate 3 times by 25 bps over the period signaling its continued confidence the economy is strong enough for a start to continue the normalization of monetary policy. Over twelve months ending June 30, 2018, two year and three year U.S. Treasuries rose 115 and 107 bps respectively ending at 2.53% and 2.62%. This indicates a flattening of the short duration yield curve over the period. Following a period of spread tightening from June 2017 to January 2018 credit spreads began to widen thanks to increased market volatility in February 2018 as concerns over inflation sparked fears of a more rapid pace of rates increases by the Fed. The BofA Merrill Lynch 1-3 Year US Corporate Index widened by 8 bps over all during the period. Oil prices rallied over the period moving from $47.92 in June 2017 and finishing at $79.44 at the end of June 2018.

Portfolio Overview

The portfolio outperformed the reference benchmark gross of fees over the period. The portfolio maintained a duration underweight over the period which helped drive performance as yields rose. From a credit perspective the portfolio was overweight to corporates which again contributed to performance, especially the sector overweight to financials. We continue to overweight corporate credit under the current macro conditions as we believe with a back drop of solid growth and strong corporate earnings investment grade corporate bonds continue to look attractive relative to government bonds.

Outlook

While still solid, global economic growth moderated in the first half of 2018. In particular, the Eurozone, UK and Japanese economies have shown signs of having hit a soft patch in Q1. However, this appears to be temporary as growth seems to remain largely on trend. The US administration's protectionist trade stance continues as countries impose their own retaliatory actions. These escalating trade tensions warrant continued monitoring as investors look to understand the administration's end goal. We still view the balance of risks tilted towards the gradual build-up of cyclical inflation pressures. This is especially relevant to the US which continues to add jobs at a healthy pace and is operating with little (or no) spare capacity.

Despite the pickup in volatility the current macro environment remains supportive for credit and the continued expectation of global growth in 2018 should allow credit metrics to remain stable. Despite weaker balance sheets across some sectors, globally, credit fundamentals remain solid and default rates remain low. Most corporate markets remain moderately expensive but global growth has been supportive for current spread levels. US investment grade and high yield spreads may be more volatile given fuller valuations. In Europe, we expect investment grade spreads to be relatively stable while high yield yields look more stretched in the current global context although less so after recent widening.

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. The Company meets the typical characteristics of an investment company and is therefore applying the accounting and reporting guidance under Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification ("FASB ASC") Topic 946, Financial Services – Investment Companies.

The significant accounting and reporting policies adopted by the Company are as follows:

(a) Investment transactions and income

Investment transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains and losses on investment transactions are calculated on a first in first out basis for the Short Duration Fixed Income Fund and on a weighted average cost basis for the Alternative Fund. Realized and unrealized gains and losses arising from investment transactions are included in the statements of operations.

Discounts and premiums on debt securities are amortized over the life of the respective securities using the effective interest rate method.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

(b) Valuation of investments

In accordance with US GAAP, fair value is defined as the price that the Company would receive to sell an asset or pay to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. Accounting guidelines for fair value measurements establishes a framework for measuring fair value, using a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability. Inputs may be observable or unobservable and refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. Observable inputs reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Company. Unobservable inputs reflect the Company's own assumptions about the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. Each investment is assigned a level based upon the observability of the inputs which are significant to the overall valuation. The three-tier hierarchy of inputs is summarized below:

- Level 1 – observable prices and quoted prices in active markets for identical investments
- Level 2 – other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar investments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 – significant unobservable inputs (including the Company's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurements falls in its entirety is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety.

Investments in securities are valued as follows:

- The fair value of debt instruments is estimated using various techniques, which may consider recently executed transactions in securities of the issuer or comparable issuers, market price quotations (where observable), bond spreads, fundamental data relating to the issuer, and credit default swap spreads adjusted for any basis difference between cash and derivatives instruments. While most debt instruments are categorized in Level 2 of the fair value hierarchy, in instances where lower relative weight is placed on transaction prices, quotations, or similar observable inputs, they are categorized in Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy. All cash and cash equivalents held at the year end has been recognized in Level 1 of the fair value hierarchy.
- Commercial paper is estimated using amortized cost, which approximates fair value. To the extent the inputs are observable and timely, the values would be categorized in Level 2 of the fair value hierarchy.
- Investments in investee funds are valued based on reported net asset value per share as provided by the administrators of the investee funds. Private investment companies measured using net asset value as a practical expedient are not categorized within the fair value hierarchy.

(c) Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash balances, money market funds, and short-term fixed deposits with maturity dates of less than 30 days from the date of purchase.

(d) Interest and dividend income

Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date net of withholding tax.

(e) Expenses

Each Fund bears its operating expenses which are allocated between all Classes in proportion to the respective net asset value of each Class unless the expense is solely attributable to a specific Class upon which it is allocated to the respective Class.

(f) Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with US GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(g) Foreign currency translation

Assets and liabilities denominated in currencies other than the base currency of each Class are translated into the base currency at the rate of exchange prevailing at the date of the financial statements. Transactions during the year in currencies other than the base currency have been translated at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date of the transaction. Realized and unrealized gains and losses on translation of investment balances are included in the statements of operations under "net realized (losses)/gains on sale of investments" and "net change in unrealized (losses)/gains on investments", respectively. All other realized and unrealized gains and losses arising from foreign currency translation are included in the line item to which they relate.

(h) Mandatory redeemable financial instruments

Financial instruments, mandatorily redeemable at the option of the holder, are classified as liabilities when a redemption request has been received and the redemption amount has been determined.

(i) Allocation of profits and losses

All investment income, realized and unrealized gains and losses are allocated to each Class of shares outstanding on a daily basis for the Short Duration Fixed Income Fund and on a monthly basis for the Alternative Fund in proportion to their respective interest in the net asset value of the respective Fund.

In January 2016, the FASB issued Codification Accounting Standards Update No. 2016-01, (Subtopic 825-10) Recognition and Measurement of Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities ("ASU 2016-01"). ASU 2016-01 requires that an entity should present separately in other comprehensive income the portion of the total change in the fair value of a liability resulting from a change in the instrument-specific credit risk if the entity has elected to measure the liability at fair value in accordance with the fair value option for financial instruments. ASU 2016-01 is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2017 and for interim periods within those fiscal years. 12. Financial Instruments and Associated Risks

Price Risk

Price risk arises primarily from uncertainty around the future prices of financial instruments held by the Funds and represents the loss the Funds might incur through holding such instruments in the face of price movements. The Manager allocates the Funds' portfolio of investments with a view to minimizing the risk associated with particular countries and industry sectors.

Currency Risk

Currency risk is the risk that future changes in exchange rates will make financial instruments held by the Funds less valuable. Substantially all the investments of each Fund are denominated in USD thus minimizing currency risk.

Interest Rate Risk

The Funds are exposed to interest rate risk to the extent that the fair value of the Fund's financial instruments may fluctuate with movements in interest rates. The Short Duration Fixed Income Fund manages interest rate risk by investing in short duration debt instruments and floating rate notes. The Funds may also use forward contracts for hedging purposes and as independent profit opportunities and invest in other investment companies exposed to significant interest rate risk. The Alternative Fund's exposure to interest rate risk through its investment in investee funds is limited to its investment in such funds.

Liquidity Risk

The Funds are exposed to liquidity risk to the extent that they are unable to realize their positions to meet liabilities and redemptions as they fall due in a timely and favorable manner. The Short Duration Fixed Income Fund manages liquidity risk by investing mainly in debt securities that can be sold daily. The Alternative Fund invests in other investee funds that are not publicly traded or for which there is no liquid market. The Alternative Fund manages liquidity risk by investing in investee funds that have similar redemption periods as is required by the Alternative Fund itself.

Credit Risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counterparty will fail to discharge its obligation or commitment related to financial instruments it has issued. Financial assets that potentially expose the Funds to credit risk consist primarily of cash and cash equivalents, investments, receivable from investments sold and interest receivable. The extent of the Fund's exposure to credit risk in respect of these financial assets approximate the carrying values as recorded in the statements of assets and liabilities. Credit risk is managed by dealing with reputable counterparties.

13. Investments in Other Investment Funds

The investments in other investment funds (the "investee funds") are valued at their fair value. The fair value represents the amount the Alternative Fund would have received at June 30, 2018, if it had liquidated its investments. The Alternative Fund has the ability to liquidate its investments periodically depending on the provisions of the respective investee fund's offering documents.

The investment funds in which the Alternative Fund has invested utilize a variety of financial instruments in their trading strategies including equity and debt securities of both U.S. and foreign issuers, options, futures, forward, and swap contracts. Several of these financial instruments contain varying degrees of off-balance sheet risk whereby changes in market values of the securities underlying the financial instruments may be in excess of the amounts recorded on each investee funds balance sheet. However, due to the nature of the Fund's interests in the investee funds, such risks are limited to the Alternative Fund's investment in each investee fund.

As of June 30, 2018, the Alternative Class has an investment in GH Fund Class AP (the "investee fund") of the HSBC Portfolio Selection Fund, a related party fund managed by HSBC Management (Guernsey) Limited and advised by HSBC Alternative Investments Limited, representing 100% of its net assets. The objective of the investee fund is to provide a total return from selective investment in a number of hedge funds, which utilize and trade in a range of different strategies and markets worldwide.
