Canada

Canadian bonds weakened over the period, following a similar pattern to the US bond market. However, as inflation fell, investors grew increasingly hopeful that interest rates had peaked and would likely come down in 2024.

The 10-year government bond yield climbed from almost 3% at the start of the period to end at approximately 3.8%. Having peaked above 4.2% in the autumn, the benchmark bond yield fell by 100 basis points ("bps") to the end of 2023 as hopes grew of interest-rate cuts across most major economies, producing one of the largest short-term rallies in bond markets in decades. The two-year yield rose from about 3.7% to 4.4% over the period, peaking at nearly 5% in September, which marked a 22-year high. The yield curve remained inverted throughout the period – normally an indication that a recession is imminent – although it narrowed by approximately 40 bps over the period to -0.40%.

The annual rate of inflation eased over the period, down from 3.4% in May 2023 to 2.9% in March 2024. Food and fuel costs generally moderated. Core inflation (excluding food and energy costs) fell further, touching just 2% in March, down from 3.7% last May, and its lowest level for three years.

Having raised interest rates from 0.25% to 4.25% in the preceding period, the Bank of Canada ("BoC") raised rates just twice in the year to April 2024, from 4.5% to 5.0%. Following the hike of 25 bps in July to 5.0%, the BoC held rates steady throughout the remainder of the period, as it judged that the current level of rates was restrictive enough to keep inflation under control. In similar fashion to the US Federal Reserve, the BoC cautioned against immediate rate cuts, stating that it needed to see more evidence that inflation was heading sustainably lower. However, it expects inflation to fall to its target level of 2% in 2025.

The economy remained largely subdued over the period. After rising by 0.2% quarter on quarter in the second quarter of 2023, gross domestic product ("GDP") fell 0.1% in the third quarter, before recovering and growing by a further 0.2% in the fourth quarter. For 2023 as a whole, GDP rose by 1.1%, the weakest pace since the Covid-19-affected year of 2020. Employment picked up from 5.2% in May 2023 to 6.1% in March 2024, while the composite purchasing managers' index fell into contractionary territory (less than 50), falling below 45 in November and December, before recovering to 47 in March.

HSBC Canadian Dollar Liquidity Fund

During the period the one-week liquidity bucket for the sub-fund started and ended the period at 36% and 37%, respectively. Meanwhile daily liquidity ranged from 21% - 59%, having started the period at 30% and ending at 31%, respectively. Both the weighted average maturity and weighted average life of the sub-fund ranged from a low of 8 to high of 53, though started and ended the period at 23 and 36, respectively.

Europe

Eurozone bond markets fell in aggregate over the period, as yields rose, reflecting investor concerns that the major global central banks, including the European Central Bank ("ECB"), would keep higher for longer. This was despite optimism towards the end of 2023 and in early 2024 that central banks would soon begin to cut rates. The final two months of 2023 marked one of the best short-term periods for government bonds in decades as a result. Bond yields headed higher again in the first quarter of 2024 and early April as it became clear that the ECB was in no hurry to cut rates and would bide its time until inflation fell sufficiently towards target levels. By the end of the period, investors and traders were discounting a cut in rates sometime in the second half of 2024.

There was some diverse performance between countries within the Eurozone. In Germany, the 10-year Bund yield rose to a peak of approximately 3% in late September, before easing to about 2.6% by the end of the period. In contrast, the Italian benchmark 10-year bond yield fell over the period from approximately 4.2% to 3.9%. Peripheral bond markets such as Greece and Spain also produced positive returns; the former was one of the best performers, with its 10-year yield dropping from 4.2% to 3.4% as its public finances showed a marked improvement. The peripheral to core bond market yield spread (between German and Italian 10-year bond yields) narrowed over the period from 185 basis points ("bps") to approximately 130 bps, indicating increased risk tolerance.

The ECB raised its key benchmark interest rate four times through the middle part of 2023, taking it from 3.5% to 4.5% – the highest level for 22 years. For much of the year, the ECB President Christine Lagarde warned that the fight against inflation would continue, although she suggested in September that it was possible that rate hikes were at an end, and no further rate hikes occurred thereafter.

The Eurozone's headline inflation continued to ease. It fell from 7.0% in April 2023 to 2.4% in March 2024. Core inflation remained higher, at 2.9% in March, and still some way above the ECB's mid-term target of 2%.

Economic growth remained sluggish. It barely grew in 2023 and a recession remained a threat. In the third quarter, gross domestic product ("GDP") fell 0.1%, but a recession was avoided when GDP came in flat during the final quarter of 2023. Household spending across the Eurozone was subdued as consumers remained concerned about inflation and the current weak economic prospects. Purchasing managers' indices also worsened over the period; the composite figure of both manufacturing and services fell into contractionary territory (below 50.0) from June and stayed there until February, although there were signs of improving trends in early 2024. However, the labour market remained relatively robust, with the Eurozone's unemployment rate at an all-time low of 6.5% in March.

HSBC Euro Liquidity Fund

During the period under review, the Investment Manager has adopted a very prudent approach by managing the sub-funds with a very low weighted average maturity ("WAM") (below 10 days) in order to take advantage of each rate hike. We kept this low WAM strategy even after the rates peaked, as we were considering that market rate cuts expectations were too aggressive, and we have managed the sub-funds in a 10 - 20 days WAM range since winter.

Credit spreads for short terms papers were slightly higher at the beginning of the period before decreasing at the end of 2023 and being broadly stable since then.

The Investment Manager's priority continues to be the preservation of capital and to maintain a high degree of liquidity at all times. We have kept a high degree of overnight exposure to deposits in order to have a very high level of daily and weekly liquid assets. For the remaining portion of the sub-funds, we have mainly invested in certificates of deposit and commercial paper.

We continue to monitor very closely all market events (such as tensions in the Middle East), and we will continue to position the sub-funds in line with these events to protect investors. The Investment Manager will continue to privilege liquidity and security of investments over yield.

Manager's Report for the year ended April 30, 2024

The United Kingdom

The UK government bond market fell marginally over the period. In contrast, corporate bonds eked out a positive return as investors showed increasing risk appetite, especially in the second half of the period.

Bond yields rose through the spring and early summer months. From the late summer, however, yields fell as the Bank of England ("BoE") stopped raising rates and headline inflation fell more steeply. The best performance came in the final two months of the year – one of the best short-term periods for gilts in decades – as bonds rallied strongly on the growing conviction that interest rates would fall in 2024. The 10-year yield dropped by approximately 100 basis points ("bps") in November and December. However, yields rose again in the first quarter of 2024 and in early April as the BoE – and indeed other major central banks – cautioned that inflation was still not sufficiently tamed and that rates would likely need to stay higher for longer.

Over the period, the 10-year benchmark bond yield rose from approximately 3.6% to about 4.4%, having hit a peak of 4.8% in the late summer. The two-year gilt yield increased by approximately 90 bps, rising from 3.6% to 4.5%.

While headline inflation fell in the UK, it initially remained higher than many other industrialised countries for the first half of the period. However, the decline in inflation gradually quickened as food and energy prices, and wage inflation, peaked. From 8.7% in April 2023, it fell to 3.2% in March 2024. Core inflation remained higher, having peaked at a new 31-year high of 7.1% in May 2023, it eased to 4.2% by this March.

The BoE raised interest rates from 4.25% at the start of the period to a 15-year high of 5.25% in early August. However, after 14 consecutive rate hikes dating back to late 2021, the BoE kept rates unchanged at its September meeting and for the remaining policy committee meetings of the period. However, the BoE Governor Andrew Bailey remained cautious about cutting rates too soon, although this did not stop speculation that the central bank would need to cut rates in 2024, as the outlook for the economy remained weak.

The economy tipped into a recession in the final quarter of 2023; gross domestic product ("GDP") fell by 0.3% on a quarterly basis, following on from a 0.1% drop in the third quarter. The cost-of-living crisis and increased tax burden – with UK taxes at their highest for 70 years – undermined consumer spending, driving the fall in economic growth. However, there was some optimism that the recession would prove to be short-lived, especially as monthly GDP data for January and February showed growth recovering. The labour market stayed relatively robust, with the number of people in work at high levels.

HSBC Sterling Liquidity Fund, HSBC Sterling ESG Liquidity Fund

At the beginning of the first semester, markets were still dealing with the aftermath of the Credit Suisse debacle and the regional bank crisis in the US. During this period, the Investment Manager adopted a conservative approach and focused on building short term liquidity on the sub-funds and by purchasing short-dated maturities on supranational, sub-sovereigns and agency type names. This saw the weighted average maturity ("WAM") drop to the upper teens to mid-twenties which also meant that the sub-funds were well positioned in the interest rate environment at that time given that the BoE's monetary policy was quite hawkish, and the Monetary Policy Committee were delivering consecutive rate hikes. Once the regional banking crisis had abated, we added Sonia linked instruments to the sub-funds when the spread offered was attractive. The WAM was managed towards a more neutral position.

Following the terrorist attacks in Israel, the Investment Manager temporarily shorted investments and sought to increase liquidity on the sub-funds. Once tensions in the Middle East receded, we cautiously extended the WAM.

During the second semester, the Investment Manager sought to increase the WAM as it became clearer that the BoE were at the end of their current tightening cycle. We continued to purchase Sonia Linked securities when the spread was attractive as a hedge against a reversal in interest rate anticipations. However, opportunities here have rarified over the latter half of the period under review. The WAM has been managed towards a more neutral level throughout this period.

The United States

US Treasuries weakened over the period as bond yields rose. The period featured steadily falling headline inflation and a slowdown in the pace of – and ultimately a halt to – interest-rate hikes by the US Federal Reserve ("Fed"). The Fed's funds rate was increased by 50 basis points ("bps") to a range of 5.25% - 5.50% in late July – the highest level for 23 years – but from then onwards, the Fed was done with raising rates.

The final two months of 2023 marked one of the strongest short-term periods for government bonds in decades as Treasuries rallied strongly on the growing conviction that interest rates would fall in 2024. However, bond yields headed higher again in the first few months of 2024, especially in April, as it became clear that the Fed was in no hurry to cut rates and would bide its time until inflation fell sufficiently towards target levels. By the end of the period, investors and traders were discounting a cut in rates sometime later in the second half of 2024.

The 10-year Treasury yield rose from approximately 3.6% to over 4.7% over the period, having hit 5% in the autumn. The two-year yield increased from 4.2% to 5.0%. The yield curve remained inverted for the whole year, although it narrowed by about 25 bps to -0.35%. The yield curve inversion between 10-year and two-year Treasuries, dating back to July 2022, is now the longest on record.

Corporate bonds, most notably high-yield bonds, performed relatively better, with spreads over government bonds contracting. This reflected greater risk tolerance in the market and investors' desires to lock in the superior yields available in the high-yield sector.

Headline inflation continued to decline gently, falling from 4.9% in April 2023 to 3.1% in January 2024, before rising to 3.5% in March. Energy costs, which had fallen for much of the period, picked up again. Core inflation edged lower, falling from 5.5% in April to 3.8% in March.

US economic growth remained relatively robust. Annualised gross domestic product, however, slowed over the year. It expanded by 4.9% in the third quarter of 2023 and by 3.4% in the final quarter of the year, before rising by just 1.9% in the first quarter of 2024. Nevertheless, for 2023 as a whole, the economy expanded by 2.5% – a pick-up from economic expansion of 1.9% in 2022. Despite a mild rise in the number of those unemployed, the rate of unemployment remained below 4% of the workforce. Job creation – notably the non-farm payrolls – generally exceeded forecasts, while initial jobless claims fell to their lowest levels for a year in early January. However, job openings gradually declined over the period.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Board of Directors of HSBC Corporate Money Funds Limited

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of HSBC Corporate Money Funds Limited (comprised of Canadian Dollar Fund, Euro Fund, Sterling Fund, Sterling ESG Fund, US Dollar Fund, US Dollar ESG Fund and the US Treasury Fund) (the "Company"), which comprise the statements of assets and liabilities, including the statements of net assets as of April 30, 2024, and the related statements of operations and changes in net assets for the year then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Company as of April 30, 2024, and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAS"). Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Company and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of management for the financial statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

Other information

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the financial statements as a whole. The other information in the annual report from pages 1 to 8 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. Such information has not been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the financial statements, and accordingly, we do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on it.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of presentation

The accompanying financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("U.S. GAAP"). The Company meets the typical characteristics of an investment company and is therefore applying the accounting and reporting guidance under Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standards Codification ("FASB ASC") Topic 946, Financial Services – Investment Companies.

The significant accounting and reporting policies adopted by the Company are as follows:

Investment transactions and income

- (a) Investment transactions are recorded on the trade date basis.

- (b) Valuation of investments

Investments are valued at fair value. Investments in money market funds are valued based on reported net asset value per share as provided by the administrators of the money market funds.

In accordance with U.S. GAAP, fair value is defined as the price that the Company would receive to sell an asset or pay to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. Accounting guidelines for fair value measurements establishes a framework for measuring fair value using a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability. Inputs may be observable or unobservable and refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. Observable inputs reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Company. Unobservable inputs reflect the Company's own assumptions about the inputs that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. Each investment is assigned a level based upon the observability of the inputs which are significant to the overall valuation. The three-tier hierarchy of inputs is summarized below:

- Level 1 – observable prices and quoted prices in active markets for identical investments that the Company is able to access
- Level 2 – other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar investments, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 – significant unobservable inputs (including the Company's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurements falls in its entirety is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement. Investment in other Investment Funds are measured using net asset value as a practical expedient are not categorized within the fair value hierarchy.

- (c) Allocation of profits and losses

All investment income, realized and unrealized gains and losses of each Fund are allocated to each class of shares outstanding on a daily basis in proportion to their interest in the net asset value of the Fund.

- (d) Interest income

Interest income is recorded on the accruals basis.

- (e) Expenses

The Company bears all operating expenses which are allocated between all the Funds in proportion to the respective net asset value of each Fund unless the expense is solely attributable to a specific Fund.

- (f) Use of estimates

Preparing financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions in determining the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, including the fair value of investments, and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities as of the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of income and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

- (g) Foreign currency translation
Assets and liabilities denominated in currencies other than the base currency of each Fund are translated into the base currency at the rate prevailing at the reporting date. Transactions during the year in currencies other than the base currency have been translated at the rate of exchange prevailing on the respective date of the transaction.
- (h) Dividend income
Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date and is presented net of withholding tax.
- (i) Financial instruments
The fair values of securities of the Company's assets and liabilities which qualify as financial instruments under U.S. GAAP approximates the carrying amounts presented in the statement of assets and liabilities due to their short-term nature.
- (j) Capital redemption payable
Redemptions are recognized as liabilities when the amount requested in the redemption notices becomes fixed, which generally occurs on the last day of a fiscal quarter. As a result, redemptions paid after the end of the year, based on the NAV of the Company at year-end, are included in redemptions payable at April 30, 2024. Redemption notices received for which the dollar amount is not fixed remain in net assets until the net asset values used to determine the redemption and share amounts are determined.

ASU 2020-04, Facilitation of the Effects of Reference Rate Reform on Financial Reporting

On March 12, 2020, the FASB has issued the Accounting Standard Update 2020-04 by adding Topic 848, Reference Rate Reform. The amendment is applicable only to contracts, hedging relationships, and other transactions that reference LIBOR or another reference rate expected to be discontinued because of reference rate reform. The expedients and exceptions provided by the amendments do not apply to contract modifications made and hedging relationships entered into or evaluated after December 31, 2024, except for hedging relationships existing as of December 31, 2024, that an entity has elected certain optional expedients for and that are retained through the end of the hedging relationship.

12. Financial Instruments and Associated Risks

Price Risk

Price risk arises primarily from uncertainty around the future prices of financial instruments held by the Company and represents the loss the Company might incur through holding such instruments in the face of price movements. The Manager allocates the Company's portfolio of investments with a view to minimizing the risk associated with particular countries and industry sectors. Each Fund's overall market position is monitored on a daily basis by the Manager.

Currency Risk

The investments of each Fund are denominated in the related base currency. Therefore, the Company is not subject to significant currency risk.

Interest Rate Risk

The Company is exposed to interest rate risk to the extent that the fair value of the Company's financial instruments may fluctuate with movements in interest rates.

Liquidity Risk

The Company invests in certain sub-funds of HSBC Global Liquidity Funds Plc ("HSBC GLF") and BNY Mellon Liquidity Funds Plc ("BNY MLF") which provide daily redemptions. The Company may invest in debt securities that are not publicly traded or for which there is no liquid market. The Company is exposed to liquidity risk to the extent that it is unable to realize its positions to meet liabilities and redemptions as they fall due (see also note 10). The Manager manages liquidity risk by maintaining sufficient liquid assets to meet liabilities and redemptions as they fall due.

Credit Risk

Financial assets that potentially expose the Company to credit risk consist primarily of cash, investments, interest and dividends receivable and accounts receivable. The extent of the Company's exposure to credit risk in respect of these financial assets approximates the carrying values as recorded in the statements of assets and liabilities. Credit risk is managed by dealing with reputable counterparties.

12. Financial Instruments and Associated Risks

Situation in Ukraine

Management acknowledges the situation in Ukraine continues to affect global economics, particularly regarding food and energy supplies. We continue to monitor the developments closely and have no direct allocation to either the Ukraine or Russia, however, there remains a high level of uncertainty regarding the effects of the conflict on global markets overall and as such on the Company.

Investments in Other Investment Funds

The investments in other investment funds (the "investee funds") are valued using the net asset values provided by the underlying investment companies as a practical expedient. The Company applies the practical expedient to its investee funds on an investment-by-investment basis and consistently with the Company's entire position in a particular investment, unless it is probable that the Company will sell a portion of its investee funds at an amount different from the NAV of the investment. The Company has the ability to liquidate its investments periodically depending on the provisions of the respective investee fund's offering documents

The investee funds in which the Company has invested utilize a variety of financial instruments in their trading strategies including equity and debt securities of both U.S. and foreign issuers, options, futures contracts, forward contracts and swap contracts, which may be denominated in various currencies. Several of these financial instruments contain varying degrees of off-balance sheet risk whereby changes in market values of the securities underlying the financial instruments may be in excess of the amounts recorded on each investee fund's balance sheet. However, due to the nature of the Company's interests in the investee funds, such risks are limited to the Company's capital balance in each investee fund.
